OBSERVATIONS explanatory of the accompanying Return.

The Return is prepared from the Answers furnished by the Managers of the National Schools, in reply to a Circular sent to each for that purpose, inclosing a Copy of the Order of The House of Commons.

From the information thus obtained, the Commissioners of Education are enabled to state with accuracy the number of National Schools in which the Holy Scriptures, or the Scripture Lessons, or both, have been read daily or occasionally, within the period specified in the Order, but not in all cases the number of children by whom they have been read.

Prefixed to the Return is a Summary in Counties and in Provinces; from which it appears, that there are 2,814 National Schools from which Returns have been received; and that, during the period specified in the Order, there are 492 National Schools in which the Holy Scriptures have been read, daily or occasionally, without Scripture Lessons; 452 National Schools in which both the Holy Scriptures and the Scripture Lessons have been read; thus showing that the Holy Scriptures have been read, daily or occasionally, in 944 National Schools; also, that there are 1,307 National Schools in which the Scripture Lessons have been read [see Note to General Summary], and 815 National Schools in which neither have been read.

Education Office, Dublin,
7 August 1843.
